

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

I am writing you to express my dismay that you are considering allowing the telephone monopolies to cut off service to excellent ISPs like Iglou. This would be a tragic mistake.

It is up to you to prevent a future in which one company is responsible for all digital services entering a home. This kind of monopoly will lead to tremendous abuse of consumers by telcos in terms of rate increases, reduced services, content censorship, and incessant bombardment by advertising.

In my opinion the FCC has made many errors in the past by giving away bandwidth to companies that didn't deserve to be given so much power. This is one case where you need to be on the side of small enterprises that could be easily run out of business by monopolies that could simply turn off the switch of their competition.

The internet should not be owned and controlled by a few companies! It is your job to grow competition and allow people like me to get great service from an ISP like Iglou that personally cares about my needs.

CONSTANTLY GIVING IN TO THE NEEDS OF MONOPOLISTIC COMPANIES IS UN-AMERICAN AND AMOUNTS TO PARTICIPATION IN THE EXPLOITATION OF THE AMERICAN CONSUMER.

Do the right thing.

Sincerely,

Jim Shaw
